AT THE WALDORF THIS WEEK

A WONDERFUL SHOW AND ALL OF IT FREE—BETTER THAN MOST OF THE METROPOLITAN VAUDEVILLE HOUSES.

It is up to the people of Astoria! Here is a show being given in their midst this week, which they could not better at the best of the metropolitan vaudeville houses. And it is up to the good folks in this city to go and see it. It will be a matter for regret amongst them if they miss this show. First on the list come our old friends, Deming and Brogan. Their turns are always amusing and new—amusing is not a strong enough term; they are the comedy par excellence of the whole Waldorf program and are always received with the greatest enthusiasm by the audience which nightly packs the house. A new act which they put on last night entitled "Nothing To Do" was as funny as could well be imagined and they deserved every bit of the hearty applause they got. Miss Alberta Hadley is a very bewitching little soubrette with a musical voice and, last night, in her sailor costume, she completely called the turn on the boys from the Charleston. Last week Stanley and Weaver gave a very cleverly comical slack wire act. This week the pair show their versatility by giving a really unique exhibition of shadowgraphy. With a screen, some lights, and a few figures as properties, a wonderfully clever entertainment is given. A battle scene where one ship is sunk, and the American flag is hauled to the peak of the victor raised tremendous enthusiasm, and was a marvelously realistic portrayal. You should never miss this turn. Next in order are the much-advertised Zat Zams. Not one word which has been written about them is hyperbolic. Fully up to all they claim for themselves they easily exceed the expectation of the audience. It is safe to say that a better exhibition of legerdmain was never given on any stage. The illusion act in which Zat the man postures Tzam the woman apparently in the air and without any support other than a thin perpendicular rod is truly marvelous. And when at last the girl is crowned and sceptered and garmented with the Stars and Stripes in a reclining attitude the house rose as one man and cheered and cheered again. Each week this house is putting on a better show, and Manager Wise is spending money in a royal way to give the patrons the best in the land. And he certainly deserves the heartiest of support. And it costs you nothing—not a nickel.

TRUE AMERICANISM.

An Episode in the Vice-Presidential Itinerary—Section Boss is Alright.

An episode in the Vice-Presidential trip occurred yesterday that brought our distinguished visitor away from the glamor of public life. Through a misunderstanding the Vice-President left the train at Goble. The committee from this city had gone to Portland expecting to meet their guest there to breakfast at the Portland Hotel. While the committee were awaiting the arrival of the train from Seattle which was one hour late our Vice-President and his secretary, Russell King, were seated on a bench at the Goble depot, strangers in a strange land. Mrs. L. H. Bross, wife of the section foreman, espied them and approaching discovered the Vice-President. Calling to her husband she said, "Hey there, hey's that Vice-President, I know him by the pictures. Let's get breakfast for him."

Mr. Bross invited the Vice-President to his humble home and his distinguished guest sat down to a breakfast which he afterward declared was the best he had eaten on his trip. When the committee reached Goble they found the Vice-President and Bross seated on a baggage truck talking unconcernedly. Bross had entertained Mr. Fairbanks by showing him through the cold storage plant and other points of interest and it is said was as much at home as if he had made a specialty of entertaining distinguished people. Mr. Fairbanks appreciated the American instincts of Bross and admired him for it.

MORE WIRELESS MESSAGES

The Charleston Sends Men to Fairbanks Reception and Also Its Magnificent Band—Jackies and Marines Look Smart and Enthusiastic Crowds Cheer

The steamer Lurline was down by 6 o'clock last night and got away again very quickly.

The most interesting event on the waterfront yesterday was the va-et-vient of the launches and boats from the cruiser. For the parade a string of seven boatloads came ashore towed by one launch, besides a couple of independent launches.

On her trip to Chinook yesterday just as she reached Desdemona Sands, the steamer Volga became disabled owing to the loosening of a pin in the crank. She was towed back by the Miller and being quickly repaired resumed her run in the afternoon.

The tug Melville brought down the schooner Alumna yesterday. The Alumna goes to Knappton to load after having been on drydock up the river.

The Joseph Pulitzer pilot schooner came down from drydock today in tow of the tug Melville. The Pulitzer has been caulked and repaired and is now fit to go back on her station as soon as she is watered and provisioned.

The Alliance came in yesterday with a very heavy passenger list from Coos Bay. The people were fortunate in finding the town en fete.

The Columbia came down yesterday with all her colors flying in honor of the Vice-Presidential visit, and very smart she looked. Her passenger list was complete, and those who compared it were fortunate in being able to see the landing of the marines and jackies from the Charleston to take part in the parade. And a pretty sight it was—especially was it pleasing when the very excellent band of marines commenced to play.

Two messages were received during the past 48 hours by the wireless telegraph system at the North Head Station from the steamer President, operating from Seattle to San Francisco, which is the only commercial craft on the coast fitted with the equipment. The first message was taken at 11 o'clock Sunday night, when the craft was 175 miles south of North Head, and was as follows: "Partly cloudy, barometer 30.02 and rising. Wind north northwest. Strong breeze and increasing. Heavy swell."

The second message was taken at noon yesterday and read: "Weather cloudy; barometer 30.10. Wind northwest. Heavy northwest swell." The steamer was then 50 miles west of North Head. The information received is of interest to those watching the tug Dauntless and the steamer Francis H. Leggett, which crossed out Saturday evening with huge cigar-shaped log rafts in tow. It is not thought rapid headway will be made with the two because of the swell.

WOMAN FOUND DEAD.

CHICAGO, July 15.—A dispatch to the Record-Herald from Sterling, Ill., says:

Mrs. Cinacita Genetti, a young Italian woman, was found dead in her bedroom yesterday with a bullet wound through her heart. The police have been working on the mystery with no success whatever, as there is not the slightest dew of a motive in the way of revenge or robbery to be had. The authorities have about concluded that the murder is the work of the blackhand association, and may have had its inception in Italy. So far as can be learned, the woman had no enemies. There is no evidence of a struggle in the room where she was murdered and the crime was so skillfully committed that the murderer left no trace of himself. Neighbors did not hear the shot and no suspicious characters have been noticed in the vicinity.

STRIKE TOMORROW.

President Small To Call Out Employees If Force Is Attempted.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 15.—Unless a settlement of the Commercial Telegraphers' strike is effected tomorrow, a general strike may be declared. The request for a settlement will be in the nature of a demand, for the men feel that they have the approval of President Small as well as the individual endorsement of the membership of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union through out the country.

The statement is made that if the national executive board should attempt to force a settlement displeasing to the strikers, President Small will call out the Chicago employees as the first move in the extension of the strike zone. Labor Commissioner Neill is not, it is said, expected to be able to achieve much, as he announced he had come to look over the situation for himself and had no definite ultimatum from President Clowry of the Western Union to submit.

President Small and the executive officers held a long conference last night, but would not divulge the nature of their discussion. Commissioner Neill made no visits yesterday, but said he thought a settlement was yet possible with concessions on both sides. Small said the time for talking had ended and would not discuss the situation other than to say that hope for peace had not been abandoned.

300TH ANNIVERSARY.

BATH, July 15.—The 300th anniversary of American shipbuilding will be observed in this city and the adjacent towns during the week of August 5, by one of the greatest celebrations ever attempted in Maine.

To give the celebration something more than a local or state interest in the committee in charge has solicited and obtained promise of the presence of several American and British warships and the attendance of the governors of several states.

IT MAKES A DIFFERENCE.

It makes all the difference in the world to the convivial man where, and what, he drinks. Most men desire beauty and cleanliness, and handsome appointments in the saloon they patronize regularly, as well as the essential pre-requisite of genuine wines and liquors that are served to them. And these things are so particularly and properly conspicuous at Otto Sund's elegant resort, the Commercial, at No. 509 on the street of that name that they account thoroughly for the fixed and splendid custom he enjoys. There is nothing allowed to pass his counter but the best and choicest in every department of indulgence, and the service behind it all, is the most pleasing and satisfying in the city.

Removal Notice.

Dr. Nellie Vernon has moved her offices from the corner of Commercial and Eleventh streets, to the second floor of the new Astoria Savings Bank building, at Duane and Eleventh streets, where she will be found from this time forward. 6-30-2w.

If a man knows anything of his own anatomy he must be aware that his stomach is a magnificent organ and entitled to the utmost consideration; knowing that he will eat at the Palace when he can conserve its safety and comfort, by eating only the best cooked, best served and most compensating meal in the city of Astoria, day, or night, it is always the same, and the Palace habit is one that pays to acquire.
